The Legend

WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL
NEWARK NEW JERSEY

Foreword

Proud, the tribal banner waves,
O'er Weequahic's great wigwam,
Home of handsome, stalwart braves,
Graceful maidens, fair and true.

Clear the blue sky silhouettes
The iv'ry totems standing tall,
Reminding us of many debts
We, your children, owe to you.

Lifelong friendships that we made;
Knowledge you, with love, imparted;
Life's foundations ably laid;
Love of truth, of honor, too.

To repay you for your care
We must live by truths you've taught,
Bravely taking progress' dare,
Striding forward with the New.

Trudging through Life's crowded way,
We pause a moment with this book,
Leaving labor and the fray
Our school-day mem'ries to review.

RUTH ROTHMAN

Dedication

To our admired adviser, Miss M. Evangeline Keefe, we, the members of the class of June 1941, extend our appreciation for her invaluable guidance and untiring leadership as Pilot of our Ship. With gratitude in our hearts we dedicate to her this volume of "The Legend."

WALTER WHITE

Assistants to the Principal

ROBERT M. COLEMAN

To the Class of June 1941:

You pass from the sheltering walls of WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL at the most critical moment in American history. Your devotion to your country, your intelligence and poise in these times of crisis, your stability and steadfastness will help to determine the future of all of us. You take with you the confidence of your friends, the teachers of WEEQUAHIC, that you will do well in the days to come, and you have their very best wishes for your future happiness.

FAREWELL SONG

TUNE: Beautiful Dreamer

Weequahic High, oh now we must part,
But always you'll hold a place in our heart.
After we've entered Life's broader way,
We will remember this parting day
And pause to reflect on friendships here gained,
On pleasures and knowledge that we attained.
Mem'ries of faces loved in school years
Will gather before us, misty through tears.

Now as we end our Weequahic days,
We sing our farewell and proudly we raise
The Orange and Brown to float 'gainst the sky,
A symbol of pride in Weequahic High.
And so we must bid a heart-felt good-bye;
Farewell and adieu, fair Weequahic High.

EVALUATION

School's upset;
Nerves are taut;
Rooms are dressed;
Trimmings bought.
What's the cause
Of this sensation?
Yes, you know:
Evaluation!

THE PRINCIPAL WANTS YOU!

• It is Friday, the fourth period—my study. Everything has been going fine the whole week; incredibly fine, in fact. I have just finished part of my advance homework, and am settling down to complete it when the sound of the teacher's voice calling my seat number (F2) disturbs all serenity. I jump to my feet, dropping everything.

"Yes, Mr. Kobetz." I say very meekly, immediately fearing—?

"You're wanted in Mr. Herzberg's office right now," he says. Suddenly there is a loud murmur in which some remarks are made directly to me.

"What's the matter?" one says.

"Cutting periods again?" puts in another.

There are other shocking remarks. I take the note with a hesitating hand, and my voice quivers "Thank you."

I walk slowly through the hall, and take the round-about route to the office. I am too frightened to discover the reason for this unexpected summons!

I console myself; "I've been a good girl." Of course, I did cut Sales, and I did chew gum in classes, but no one saw me. It might be because of my failure to bring my note of absence. I rack my brain; I think of all kinds of excuses.

By the time I reach the office I am mentally undone; my nerves are shattered; I enter as if in a trance.

I am requested to wait five minutes—five eons. Students come in and out. Soon, I thought, I will be passing through the door. Ah! At last the principal! I am so glad to see him, knowing that in a few minutes my misery will be over or just beginning.

"Your college application—why haven't you filled it out?"

SQUAWS AND BRAVES OF 227

Would you like to hear, dear Legend readers,
Some interesting facts of our homeroom leaders?

There's ROSALYN MEYERSON, an efficient member,
Our class representative since September.

JOE STEINBERG, too, holds this position;
We feel that leadership is his main ambition.

NEIDWESKI, LORIMER and JACOBS are quiet,
But RUDD'S corny expressions cause a riot.

KENNEDY prefers not to think of school;
ROTH and COHEN know the Golden Rule.

Meanwhile FISHMAN walks around and poses;
Yours truly is thinking of last prom's roses.

HARRIET, RUTH, and RITA are all sweet;
SELDA'S clothes are lovely, and oh, so neat!

BERNICE SHULMAN hums a popular tune;
SHACKMAN and SCHECTER can't wait till June.

HOCHHAUSER, BASEN and BUDILOWSKY study;
CARE and GETZ are each other's buddy.

EISER and HENIG are new to our class;
KORNGUT is admiring a sweet little lass.

As DOTTY reveals her sweetest smile,
ANNE is conversing all the while.

KIVITZ is a fine and pretty girl;
LASKA'S hair is always in curl.

Are KAPLAN, KNOWLES and RASKIN demure?
Maybe, but don't be too sure!

Since you're familiar with each lassie and lad,
I hope you'll agree that we're not so bad.

S. S. 103

As I sit reminiscing, I seem to recall
Homeroom 103 at the end of the hall.
Its occupants are quite a talented lot,
Possessing qualities that will ne'er be forgot.

For instance, I'll see Miss NADELL, that gay lass,
Come out of a huddle with the rest of the class;
And dancing DEENA, after heaving a sigh,
Will think of her marks which are always quite high.

Our athletic hero, LEON the Great,
While thinking of Superman, forgets last night's date;
And ARTY, the guy who admires Lamarr,
Whistles a tune about "Eight to a Bar."

Now MIRIAM'S there in the very last seat,
Humming a song and tapping her feet;
And JULIA SWERSKY, as you may know,
Knits one, pearls two, throughout the row.

"Chewing the rag" is ROSALYN'S sport;
LILIA reads the latest report;
RITA SCHMIDT carefully takes the role,
And JIMMY'S always with the window pole.

Now CAROLYN and SHIRLEY are inseparable friends;
Their laughing and joking never ends;
And HELEN and MARGARET show a great deal of wit
By constantly throwing the class in a fit.

And then there's ETHEL, who is always so gay,
Laughing and singing her time away;
And ED SILVERMAN sitting quietly there
Thinks of report cards and how he will fare.

This superior class, with MISS CLEMENTS as guide,
Will face the world and meet the tide;
For such outstanding talent cannot go astray
But only live on after commencement day.

SYLVIA SOROKA

GYM LOCKER

Hurry up;
Bell has rung;
Late again;
And I'll be hung.
Got your socks?
I'll close up;
Darn these lockers
That never lock.
Look at that,
Stocking ran!
Gotta scat;
Bye, my fran!

PIE FOR CABIN 311

On the Wigwam's hill, in a bowl we'll paste
A handsome pie for you to taste.

First put butter, yellow as CAROLINE'S hair,
As much flour as MURRAY SCHWARTZ, we dare;
Then add brown sugar from ED LEISTER'S eyes,
Rounded in a spoonful of SHIRLEY GOTTLIEB'S size.
With milk as wholesome as a lunchroom meal,
Surely ELSA FRUCHTER won't any thinner feel;
A dash of ROZZY MIDLER'S smile, and PAUL'S so bright,
With ELLIE COHEN'S sweetness to make a luscious bite.
Of course the spice we sprinkled in
Comes from the tongue of CHARLOTTE SERVIN.
And from DAVE VICTOR'S lips, those broad grins
Should be stirred with NEAL ZUCKERMAN'S whims.
More flour as soft as JAN SZERLIP can be Smooths it out as MORTY S.'S line, you see.
It may have the crust of DAVY ROTHSCHILD'S verbal socks
And a dough covering thinner than MARTY FOX.
We'll bake this with the speed of ELLIE MALTZ
In a pan well greased with all our faults.
If LUCILLE to ARLINE doesn't loudly call,
The pie will stay up as MILTY BLICK is tall.
MARCIA, ROSEMARY, RUTH GLASSNER and ELLEN STEIN
Will test the pie each period; for seasoning, use RUTH KLEIN.
HAROLD, HOWIE, SID, DAVE POLLACK
Will make this baking a rollicking frolic.
IRWIN, DONN, with VIC, the firing mate,
We'll light a hot oven, MRS. LITZKY, when we're late.
It will rise to the pitch of DAY COLEMAN'S voice;
and ARTY YOUNG, and ANNE COHEN will slice the first choice.

Each piece is generous in its part,
Holding 311 nearest to heart.
So the pie we'll decorate with more than confection;
We give to dear old Weequahic our lasting affection.

DAVIDINE COLEMAN

CYCLE TEST

The test was tough;
The teacher hard;
And ten's enough
To make you flunk
That "Who's the Bard?"
Oh gosh, I'm sunk.

Forget the test,
And go to dance;
I did my best;
I shouldn't feel sunk;
I'll take my chance;
Oh, I won't flunk . . .
. . . maybe.

Personal

OUR YEARBOOK ADVISER

One of Weequahic's kindest teachers
Aided our yearbook's many features.

Facts were gathered; ads were sought;
"Be responsible." This was taught.

Mr. La Penna, our adviser,
Certainly couldn't have been much wiser.

"Destination" and "favorite port,"
Titles were too long or short.

He told us to think of new ideas,
Different from those of other years.

We tried and tried to gain perfection
Under this leader's grand direction.

He encouraged us all to work together
To make this yearbook so much better.

Even before our work was done,
His pleasant friendship we knew was won.

Memories of him will always stay
Long after June commencement day.

PARADE OF THE COHENS

There is Harriet who is in the lead;
You'll always find her a friend indeed.

Second in line is the blond Julius J.,
A prominent member of our O.B.A.

And then the scholarly Anne appears,
More lovely than Venus, far wiser than seers.

And Eleanor there with her poise and her grace,
A voice ever pleasant, a sweet smiling face.

Ah, Warren is here of the black wavy locks;
The conservative suits and the bright, gaudy socks.

With beautiful clothes and hair always neat,
'Tis the smiling Selda next we meet.

Dorothy's quiet, has little to say;
She likes her work combined with her play.

There is Miss Ruthie with her red hair;
She represents the fairest of the fair.

And Robert of baseball fame is the boy
With whom all girls flirt, and try to get coy.

And then comes Bernice toward the end of the line;
She has the most dates to dance and to dine.

But the last one to come is the Cohen named
Grace,
For she is the one who wrote this disgrace!

GRACE COHEN

CLASS PROPHECY

NAUTICAL BUT NICE

(A FANTASY)

• The sea was green; the waves were white; the sky was blue; the sun was bright. Everything was according to Hoyle. There were even two sea-gulls which flapped idly around, then perched on the funnel of a boat which happened to be passing. These sea-gulls were most unusual. One had the bluest eyes in the world and the other was blond and inquiring.

"Look!" said one sea-gull, "The ship's flag says 'Class of June 1941.' Listen! I hear singing!" From below came the strains: "From our great wigwam on the hill; From our great wigwam on the hill; From our—" Oh, well, you get the idea.

"Say, this must be our class! It's been a long time since we snooped around and spied on them. Let's stop!"

From the funnel on which they were perched came the sound of angry words. Down in the engine room, SANDY NEUHAUS and BOB WOLFSON were arguing with the rest of the black gang, DICK BURSTEIN, AARON KAPLAN and MARVIN MOSER, about the proper size of coal for the furnace. With elaborate equipment Sandy was trying to prove that the coal they were using was exactly 2/10 g. too heavy for efficiency. Fiercely they fought with words, then with pieces of coal. In the midst of the melee the ship stopped, stranded in a queer hazy cloud-bank. Idly the sea-gulls glanced around. At the wheel sailor boy JOE LUBIN was turning this way and that and bawling pointless orders to the engine room.

Inside the luxurious main cabin, in a lovely dining room, a gay luncheon was in progress. At the head of the main table sat JOE MARGOLIS, still as blond, still a captain.

Debonair JOE KAHN was being a good mixer. RITA WEISMANN, once a treasurer, now a treasurer to EDWIN LEISTER, ship's purser, flirted as gaily as ever. Among the distinguished guests were HOWARD LEVINE, ambassador to the South Sea Islands; JESSE PEARL, a famous writer; BERNARD BUKAREST, a violinist with a beard; and ARTHUR SCHWARTZ, turned into a fat Republican. Sprinkled about for spice were a number of socialites who had added weight with the years. The gay ranks included DAVIDINE COLEMAN, ALICE KLEIN and ROSIMOND MIDLER. BERNICE WARSHAWSKY, a glamorous secretary to the aforementioned writer, rounded out the table.

Among the happy throng in the room was SIDNEY GILBERT, the famous composer, brooding alone at a quiet table, doubtless remembering the good old barbershop stuff.

At a center table, in black lace, was the South American divorcee, Baroness Perfidia y Frenesi (nee MARJORIE SCHILL), who travelled strictly alone with her companion, MARCIA BEN-ASHER.

At a table near the door sat ALVIN STEINBERG, the renowned mathematician, and his wife (nee IDA ROTHSPAN) and their lovely little children.

Continued

MAURICE WACHTEL, M.C. for the evening, introduced a specialty dramatic monologue by CHARLOTTE SERVIN and some card tricks from GERTY BILLET, and the society band swung into action.

BILL KERMODE, still with those waves and that smile, led a motley crew: ABE COGAN at the flute, BOB GUTENTAG at second fiddle, DANNY MORGULOFF manning the triangle, CAROLYN SCHARF with the cello, and BERNARD DLUGASCH, the xylophone. At the piano, SHIRLEY REISMANN gazed soulfully at the picture of Webster Aitken which replaced the music sheets. A tuneful sister act, FREDASPERLING and ANNE HOROWITZ, did a hot version of "Oh, Promise Me," hampered by the orchestra playing "Jeanie with the —!"

At the long, long bar, CHARLEY WEISS kept them filled for those tired businessmen, JACK DIETSCH, ABE NEDICK, DANNY GOLDBERG and NORMAN SEIDLER.

Suddenly, to loud applause, the M.C. announced the world-famous quartet of singing waiters, MARVIN KRASNER, LENNIE WEINGLASS, NEAL ZUCKERMAN and FRANKLIN BERNSTEIN. While they were doing their absorbing routine, the fact that the ship stopped was first noticed. Everyone rushed madly out on deck.

In sick bay, there was consternation. SEYMOUR FLEISHFARB, ill with the measles, was demanding to go on deck. He was joined by RITA NUSSBAUM, the comedienne, who had a sore throat, and BILL GELFOND and RAY FELD, who had hangovers. Doing their best to calm the dangerously ill patients was handsome Doc CY BLOOM, of the bedside manner, assisted by nurses RUTH GARTENBERG and ADELE KORNBLUTH.

Outside, the gaping passengers were watching a mad procession pass through the fog. Floating gracefully by was a raft of bathing beauties, MILDRED TAFFET, FRAN SHERMAN, ELIZABETH and MARY ALICE HALPIN and ANITA KANEY, all trying to hold graceful positions while elbowing for front places. Steering the raft and enjoying himself was mad MILTY KAPLAN, gotten up as Papa Neptune, with spear and robes, and spinach on his face.

A periscope was seen; then nearby, very nearby, a submarine popped up, and grinning sailors climbed on top of each other for a better look. MARTY ROFF and JORDON WASSERMAN on top of OSCAR CARE and JOE STEINBERG elbowed WARREN NEWMAN, who cried, "No fair; I saw them first!" Hanging on the edges were DAVY VICTOR, JACK DEN-

HOLTZ, ALFRED ROTHFUSS, and EDWIN MONAS.

Suddenly heads were turned as a rowing shell with stalwart lads went quickly by. NORMAN SOLOMON, as coxswain, HERB LEVINE, SAM GETZ, WALT WEBER, STANLEY SEIGEL, DAVID POLLACK and LESLIE GOLDSTEIN did their best for dear old Siwash with never a peep at the girls.

The mad Russian, IVAN ZINBERG, whizzed by in a little motorboat with ALVIN ROSENBLATT holding down the stern. Spotting the earnest lads, they zoomed nearer and yelled, "Yaah! Get a horse!" "Sir!" said HERMAN POLLACK, with dignity.

A battered houseboat, the Pinafore, breezed by. In the bow sat BILLY OFFENKRANTZ, the monarch of the sea, and his lovely wife, PAULA SILVERMAN. Around them played not one, not two, but three little Billys! Oh happy day!

Toot! Toot! went the whistle, and along came the Hoboken ferry, captained by HERBERT SCHNEIDER. The boat went wildly to and fro looking vainly for the dock. HERBY KATZ and JOHN McBRIDE, those harassed commuters, looked instinctively at their watches as ARTHUR YOUNG took on career girls ELEANOR COHEN and JOSEPHINE JUILIANO at once.

Trying to calm the now irate passengers was PRISCILLA SCHWARTZBERG, head stewardess. From the window of the brig on the boat JERRY EISENSTODT and DAVID RUDD, imprisoned for uttering nautical words, looked out on an interesting polo game. ERNIE MORGENSTERN led his team of FRED STEINBERG, ARTHUR LAUTZ, ROBERT RITTER and MORRIS ROSENFELD, riding salmon, against EVELYN FISCHER, BETTY KARDOS, BARBARA BRODSKY, ANNE COHEN and ELEANOR MALTZ astride large tuna fish.

Suddenly EDWARD KLEIN shouted as he saw MARY HEALY and IRENE TRUSEAK menaced by sharks, but gallant MORTON BRETT leaped to the rescue aided by ARTHUR FRANZBLAU, president of a matrimonial agency, and GEORGE MESMER, an actor with a profile.

Dropping from parachutes came WALTER KRETCHMER and JOEL GERSTEN, Fuller Brush men, who attempted to sell their products to those three GRACES — KNOWLES, BENN and COHEN, to the amusement of PEARL FELLER, who laughed so hard she nearly dropped her rope, on the other end of which was DONN RUOTOLO, just making sure of his water wings.

Concluded

On board the liner, ELLEN STEIN, the lady socialist, leaned over the rail and harangued anyone who would listen. "Fellow workers and friends, for you are my friends—!"

Introducing a rival political element came a small rowboat. With SHIRLEY CAMCHE and RUTH ROTHMAN at the oars, and HATTIE AXLER holding an immense bundle, it steered erratically through the assembled flotilla. "Bundles for Britain!" cried the girls, "Bundles for Britain!"

"Oooh," said Hattie. Dropping the package, she dove and swam for the approaching boat, a garbage scow manned by MORTY SANTLIFER and MORRIS SCHWARTZ. These stalwarts sat smoking and discussing Plato as they ignored every girl around.

"Oh Sole Mio," sang JOHNNY BROPHY to NAN MCCARTHY as they paddled by in their canoe. "Phooey," said HAROLD YUKER, floating by on a rubber tube.

A galloping sound in the distance turned out to be those erstwhile equestriennes, JANICE GLICKMAN, ESTHER MUELLER, FLOSSIE SCHOENHAUS and Nanci SILVER, up on some colorful sea horses. Racing by in the wrong direction, they nearly collided with MARTY FOX, who, swimming with a special stroke, was trying for the record between Boston and Cairo. In a sloop, clocking him, were MEL ZOLLER and his wife (nee JANET SZERLIP) and J. J. COHEN with, as ever, a campaign button on his lapel. "Cohen for Street Cleaner," it said.

"What?" said the crowd on the steamboat. "An office Julie hasn't been defeated for!"

In a sheltered corner of the deck, MILTON BLICK was peacefully rocking and knitting when LUCILLE JELLINEK whipped out a gun and shot him. "I can't stand the click," she screamed; "it reminds me of the clocks in Weequahic!" The sympathetic crowd would have comforted her, but their attention was distracted to the side of the boat where CAROLYN NEGER was eloping down a rope ladder to a sailboat captained by fond MYRON MANDLESTEIN, Cupid himself. The waiting bridegroom, a blond serious youth (June '45), paled visibly at the taunts hurled at the pair. "Shame! Shame!" they hissed. "Eloping with a member of another class!" The sailboat got away, however, and nearly collided with a Chinese junk on which those happy couples, JULES SACHS and PEARL NADELL, and BOB BEGEROW and ELENORA TOKES lived in amity, with RITA SCHNACK as cook and chaperon.

A seaplane dived out of the clouds with CHET FEINBERG at the stick. DAVE ROTHCHILD leaned out and shot (with his camera) FRED FISCHMAN, boy soprano, who paddled by in a kayak singing "Dixie."

Trailing behind the kayak was an iceberg where mermaids DEB BALSON, LUCILLE HARTMAN, RITA FISHMAN, ELAINE PENTERICH, RITA SOFMAN and ROSALYN MEYERSON were frozen in pretty attitudes.

MILLY MAISEL, CHARLOTTE NIEBERG and GERRY HEMMENDINGER chugged by in a flashy sports coupe. "You can't do that," yelled PAUL RABINOWITZ and JACK BERGER in a rowboat. The car sank. "You and your education!"

That crazy motorboat came by again with Ivan and Alvin still on board, and this time YETTA KAPLAN rode an aquaplane attached to the rear. Just in back came the showboat where the three o'clock show was just commencing. VIC PARSONNET with a blackface routine was followed by MILLY GURVITZ in a Hawaiian number. MORRIS BALL and CLAIRE KURTZ were great adagio dancers. Then RUTH KLEIN, SHIRLEY GOTTLIEB and DORIS PERSILY made them forget the Andrews sisters.

Sniffing at the happy sinners came IZZY MARGOLIS, ALAN HENIG and BOB CANTWELL, on their way to Siam to convert the natives. (To what?)

Ah! final fantasy! A Hollywood set! WALT ROTHSCCHILD in a beret waved his arms and shouted in German at MILT SCHOTTENFELD, the cameraman, in two berets, one on each ear. IRVING HOCHHAUSER, Jack Dawn's successor, added even more oomph to RUTH CHINICH'S face, as PEARL CHASALOW, Hollywood columnist, successor to Elsa Maxwell, took everything down. While BOB GREENE, the hero, made love to JEAN GOLDBERG, the ingenue, BOB ABELES did a realistic Boris Karloff act, and SELDA KOHN, the author, sat in a corner reading—"The Essays of Montaigne!"

It was too much. "Well, I'll be!" said one sea-gull, and fainted. Alas, she fell into the furnace and burned; and the heat started the liner; and the fog rolled away; and the other ships disappeared. The lone sea-gull stretched and yawned, and stopping to trace a message, flopped wearily away.

The message?

THAT'S ALL FOLKS!

NORMAN SEIDLER

OH SHIP, OH SENIORS!

Ahoy there, Gobs, where go ye now,
To raise the sail, to point the bow,
To catch your whale, to stand your strife;
Where step ye in the sea of life?

Why do ye now so hesitate?
Are you afraid to front your fate?
Or can it be these fearful casts
Are but regrets of palling pasts?

Well, lift your eyes, and raise your head;
That phase is gone; the past is dead.
But now meet life as you are fit;
You've made your bed; now lie in it.

WEEQUAHICANA

SENIOR FRAGMENTARIES

Do you hear those sounds
With which Weequahic resounds;
Angelic voices softly cooing,
Fighting, shouting, whining, wooing?
Hear the whispers gently blown:

"Hyah, girlie; gotta phone?"
"Frere Jacques, dormez-vous?"
"Here's a summons all for you!"
"Cycle tests; they're piling on!"
"Did you hear Ellis' latest pun?"
"Twenty B, plus D, square C . . ."
"And listen what he sez to me . . .!"
"Shakespeare died the twenty-third."
"Use implied and not inferred."
"Woodwinds, not so loud down there!"
"That there teacher don't mark fair!"
"Repetez, ma classe, encore."
"Ain't Miss Brown an awful bore?"
"I got my gyp-slip all made out."
"Johnson was the most devout . . ."
"Revlon's newest shade's delish."
"That Dotty kid is sure some dish!"
"I got to bed at ten last night!"
"Learn to work and strive and fight."
"Gimme one plantation chew."
"The choclit's melted, gooshy goo."
"Doin' anything tonight?"
"O. K. honey chile, I'll bite."
"Roses are red and v'lets blue;
"Sulfur smells and so do you."
"I got a D instead of F!"
"Hey, Helene, have you gone deaf?"
"Where is galley proof, page two?"
"What say, kid, let's pitch some woo."
"Count off by three's; now ready, one!"
"Gosh, Miss Keane, what have I done?"
"I pledge allegiance to the flag."
"Oh, Jack is just a windy bag."
"Now we come to Mendel's Law."
"Come on, Betsy, gimme yo' paw."
"But I don't like the blasted carrots!"
"Read tonight about the Barretts."
"Donnez-moi the homework, please."
"All I've got are C's and D's."
"I have a heavy date tonight."
"Fight makes might and might makes right!"
"So! You've clicked my locker, lug!"
"Ain't he the dippy bio bug!"

"I guess I lost my book, Miss Lansing."
"Mother, may I go out dancing?"
"Wanna cut a rug, lil chile?"
"Anybody got a file?"
"Come on, Randy, lend me that."
"Where is Bob? He's up at bat!"
"Why, Miss Keane, I wasn't talking!"
"Turn 'round, Punk, and keep on walking!"
"Henny, why ja cut the class?"
"Listen, Stupid, none o' your sass!"
"Hee Haw! Letters from abroad!"
"Aft, now, get thee from me, Maude."
"Why that sad and droopy look?"
"Hyah, Sappy, got your book?"
"Hello, Joe, and what do ya know?"
"Sure, keed, when ya gotta go . . ."
"Georgie sent a rose bouquet."
"That was said by Doctor Coue."
"Going to the dance, Lucille?"
"Did you write your thesis, Neil?"
"You seem to want a summons, Red."
"This here baby's bottle-fed."
"Come on and join the O.B.A."
"There's a sub in chem, hooray!"
"Pay your senior dues at once."
"Oh, shut up, you stupid dunce!"
"Destination? Put down hobo."
"Je n'ai pas du pain, you dodo."
"Boy these locker rooms sure smell!"
"Ruth, was that the passing bell?"
"Listen, Bill, you flatfoot worm!"
"I want you all to pass this term."
"Here now, students, I present . . ."
"Those were times of mass ferment."
"XY equals B because . . ."
"You must memorize these laws."
"Furnish adverbs for the blanks."
"All I do and get no thanks."
"I washed my hair last night, you know."
"Tune up, girls, for 'Sweet and Low'."
"I want chow mein and bread and butter."
"Stand up, Ralf, and please don't mutter."

Continued

"I'd give my kingdom for a pull."
 "Janice, got a Chem by Dull?"
 "Sloppy Joe's are now passe."
 "This Impressionist, Manet . . ."
 "Hey, there, Redhead, where's yer pass?"
 "Softer tones, please, from the brass."
 "Mashed potatoes—plenty gravy."
 "Whatya get in printing, Davy?"
 "Don't look now, but there goes Bernie."
 "And so Cortez began his journey."
 "Take great care, girls, on the placket."
 "Looka Harry's sharp jacket!"
 "Come on, boys, out for the team."
 "Life is but an empty dream."
 "We'll beat those blooming South Side sophs."
 "Cornell has got the better profs . . ."
 "Maple walnut ice cream, please."
 "But with tuition and the fees."
 "He's got a car and some technique!"
 "No, and I'll be out all week."
 "Don't that all just make ya burn?"
 "You're here to study and to learn."
 "What's up, Carol, why so blue?"
 "Just be sweet and learn to coo."
 "That orchestra is cert'ny crummy!"
 "Oh, Ben and me are very chummy."
 "Baby, where ja get that curl?"
 "What is that you're knittin', Pearl?"
 "Will someone volunteer to try it?"
 "Tomorrow, I'll go on a diet."
 "Veni, Vidi, Vici, et . . ."
 "May I have the pass, Miss Ghett?"
 "Wasn't Miller swell last night?"
 "Will someone please turn on the light?"
 "Once upon a midnight dreary . . ."
 "Sammy looks red-eyed and bleary."
 "Practice teachers! Practice teachers!"
 "Of course we'll sit up in the bleachers."
 "Friends, the time is fast approaching . . ."
 "Yessir, boys, and Layden coaching."
 "Circle left and come down center."
 "Mrs. Blank is some tormenter."
 "Beat it, Punk, and take a walk."
 "All I hear is talk, talk, talk."
 "Baby eyes, please shine on me."
 "To be or not to be a bee."
 "Well cut my legs and call me Shorty."
 "I like jackets loud and sporty."
 "Of our famous family fights."
 "Douse the glitter! Can the lights!"
 "Yippeeay, a B in Law!"
 "Quiet, Jill, and rest your jaw."
 "Now clear your desks, please, for a quizz."
 "Yeah, did I give him the bizz!"
 "How dare you brazenly deny—"

"Lenny is the swellest guy."
 "I'm late because I come from gym."
 "Oh, it's just a passing whim."
 "B square C, plus A, cube D."
 "Ten years from now, where will I be?"
 "One, Two, Three, Four, Five, Six, One."
 "Tuesday night, did we have fun!"
 "Now we come to propaganda."
 "You're my little baby panda."
 "That's a pretty blouse, Renee."
 "Let's all live the Weequahic way."
 "I love those color combinations."
 "We are now united nations."
 "John, you have a biased view."
 "I don't like Estelle; do you?"
 "Ah, sweet mystery of life."
 "Anybody got a knife?"
 "And Eddie said to me last night . . ."
 "I can't make Alice see the light."
 "What is love, oh, what is life?"
 "Mr. Stewart has a wife."
 "Sorry, kid, but I'm dead broke."
 "Gimme Camels and a coke."
 "Chess and Checker meets today."
 "What's the English homework, Mae?"
 "Where's my flask and thistle tube?"
 "Harry's just a hicktown rube."
 "Reconciliation: Burke."
 "Gosh, I hate Observer work."
 "Math Review is sure a pain."
 "She looked at me with cold disdain."
 "Guritsky won that game for us."
 "He's about as tall as Gus."
 "Oh, he never gives a quizz."
 "Let's take in a movie, Liz."
 "I like I. R. the best of all."
 "Whadshe do but start to bawl."
 "Que pensez-vous de cette idee?"
 "We got the cutest Nash coupe."
 "Get more ads or we'll be sunk."
 "Discount half he says as bunk."
 "Wipe off that silly, sickly smirk."
 "I'm quitting Phys; I hate the work."
 "Anne, the lab assistant left!"
 "Then I am left alone, bereft."
 "Miss Burrell went to the Annex."
 "We must all beware of panics."
 "The half-past bell has rung, Bernice."
 "But, Rose, has Billy got a lease?"
 "Jane, kin I sit next to you?"
 "For Pete's sake, Bunny, taissez-vous."
 "Gosh, I've got two tests today!"
 "Bunny, didn't you hear me say: . . ."
 "Shut up!!!"

RUTH ROTHMAN

REMINISCING

I remember, I remember days of yore in school
When it was expedient to follow teacher's rule.
I remember, I remember teacher's dirty looks
If we did not cover all our boring, bulky books.
I remember, I remember lockers filled with stuff;
The books, the coats, the scarves, the gloves, and last year's woolen muff.
I remember, I remember Mr. Epstein's rage
When someone in the homeroom set himself up as a sage.
I remember, I remember homework that was due,
And how often in my classes my increasing boredom grew.
I remember, I remember when the lunch hour came,
The soup was, oh, so watery, and the sandwiches were lame.
I remember, I remember the rush and scramble too,
To be first one at the mirror, and apply that sticky goo.
I remember, I remember how in the gym we danced;
We should have been like water nymphs, but more like horses pranced.
I remember, I remember study teacher's scold
When behind our books we whispered, and were, oh, so very bold.
I remember, I remember lockers in the gym
Where girls all gathered 'round to talk about a certain him.
I remember, I remember assemblies that we had;
Often they were very good; but sometimes they were sad.
I remember, I remember when I sat and gazed
At the handsome boy in class who really had me dazed.
I remember, I remember all the time I spent
In our spacious library where down to work I bent.
I remember, I remember corridors would reek
When students of the sciences experiments did seek.
I remember, I remember the days till five I'd stay
Because instead of doing work, I'd much prefer to play.
I remember, I remember how eagerly we'd wait
For holidays so soon at hand that we'd anticipate.
I remember, I remember days of the Calumet
When every student rushed and grabbed, his own paper to get.
I remember, I remember how I crammed for tests,
And even then I still found time for many of my jests.
I remember, I remember feet that were so sore
After any school dance for which we primped before.
I remember, I remember Music Revues in May,
And how hard our Mr. Melnik worked so the orchestra could play.
I remember, I remember at the cycle's end;
There were so many F's it seemed an extra term I'd spend.
I remember, I remember when my books were late,
Or if I had to pay for them long hours I would wait.
I remember, I remember, while on the Legend Staff,
That in spite of all the work we did we still had many a laugh.
I remember, I remember all this and so much more
That happened in those happy days, those golden days of yore.

FOUR YEARS THROUGH THE GRIND

- F for the frails, the frills, the femmes, that wrought the trail of failures and then
O for the orals, the oggles, the odes,
the homework that we were given in loads.
U for Ulysses, that hero of yore;
his trials through my ears will ring evermore.
R for the rampant, the rapid races,
as we rushed from the gym with untied laces.
- Y for the years of yokes and yells,
of screaming voices and deafening bells.
E for the ego of early years,
quickly dissolved in scalding tears.
A for the apples, the apes, the airs;
our early years' characteristic flairs.
R for the rattling, racing wrecks,
for the weekly payment of dollar checks.
S for the sighs, the sallies, the sasses that had their part in all our classes.
- T for the trials, the troubles, the tasks,
like rocks in our paths constantly cast.
H for the headaches, the hardships we had which now to us bring a feeling so sad.
R for those rollicking, rousing romances that seemed so important at all O.B.A. dances.
O for orange juice, omelets and odors, penetrating the lunchroom while we sipped our sodas.
U for unison we so proudly express,
the greatest asset which we possess.
G for gaiety, gladness, alternate gloom,
that each recalls in his own homeroom.
H for homerooms, happy and gay, whose children soon go on their way.
- T for those tangents, trigonometry troubles that caused many vacations to burst like bubbles.
H for the hoots and hilarious howls which from our teachers brought many scowls.
E for English and eagerness for eats, causing students many quickened heartbeats.
- G for grammar, gum and glue,
which now make us shudder and feel so blue.
R for readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic;
these I'm sure weren't hard to lick.
I for ice cream, ickies and ink,
of which we now so fondly think.
N for the nonsense, and needless noise made by all those freshmen boys.
D calls the dolls and dandies to mind of four short years through a happy grind.

SHIRLEY CAMCHE
RUTH CHINICH

WINTER MORNING

It's ten after seven, and it's cold as ice;
You get out of your bed, so warm and so nice.

The sky is gray, and the air is chilled;
The milk is frozen, or else it's spilled.

The washroom is taken; you wait in line;
You hear the clock begin to chime.

It's 7:30; you fear you'll be late;
Your teacher might make a 2:30 date.

At last the door opens; you go in with a rush;
You turn on the water and pick up a brush.

Your eyes are heavy; the house is hushed;
It's getting late and your teeth aren't brushed.

Your hair is straggly; it won't stay down;
You view your reflection without a frown.

You're used to these things; you no longer care;
The bell rings at 8:30, and you won't be there.

You despise this rush and all the haste;
That breakfast of yours just hasn't a taste.

You're disgruntled, discouraged, angry and sore;
You're pretty sure now that school is a bore.

You give up all hope; you no longer fight;
You're positive now that things can't go right.

You're plenty disgusted as you pass by a store.
And you look at the clock upon the door.

You sigh with relief; your troubles are past;
Your clock in the house was ten minutes fast.

You rush to your seat with a sickly grin;
You made it in time and just got in.

FRED FISCHMAN

CHEM LAB

Broken test tubes;
Misplaced keys;
Smuggled lab books;
Damage fees;
Spotted clothing;
Dirty flask;
Washing test tubes;
Tiresome task;
False reactions;
Lab sheets blank;

Locker stuck;
Air is rank;
Towel dirty;
Bunsen broken;
Pressed for time;
Oaths unspoken;
Pungent scents;
The matches grab;
But it's fun:
Chemistry lab!

RECITATION

Work undone;
Unit new;
Mind is empty;
Notebook, too.

Worried stiff
I'll be chosen;
If I am —
"Oh yes, Miss Rosen."

Look intelligent;
Nod my head
To everything
The teacher said.

Try to bluff;
Could she tell?
Heaven's grace!
There's the bell!

LUNCHROOM

Dishes clatter;
Mustard splatter;
Noisome chatter;
Broken platter;
Gravy spatter;
Bottles shatter:
Lunchroom patter.

HOMEWORK

School could be
The greatest fun
If only homework
Needn't be done.
Adults work
From sun to sun,
But student's work
Is never done.

A STUDENT'S SOLILOQUY

I didn't want to hurt him.
But enough was enough.
You know how it is when you've had all you can take;
I really didn't mean to do it,
But I had had enough.

I guess school is no place for me,
Reading books, doing homework, taking tests that were tough;
I didn't mean to hurt him,
But enough was enough.

At first I thought he was trying to kid me,
And trying to find out what I knew;
But then it got so, if I'd see him coming down the hall,
It would grip me so much that I'd pray he wouldn't say it;
But he always did:

“Can I see your history, Joe?”

“Did you get the problem, Joe?”

“Will you lend me your book, Joe?”

Maybe that's what school's like,
But it started to get me.

Well, ambling down the hall that day,
He saw me going to my room,
And he said “Let me copy it, Joe”;
I mumbled something like “O.K.”
And went to my room.

A couple of minutes later he came back and asked again;
It was then that something started spinning inside,
And like I said,
I didn't mean to hurt him.

Gee! I'm awfully sorry—you can tell his folks
I hope he's all right,
And I didn't know what I was doing;
But enough was enough.

ESTHER MUELLER

LIFE

4A; Hooray!
Graduation Day,
So awfully gay.

Fall;
In a brawl;
An office call;
From college fall.

On street;
Gotta eat;
Bad shoes on feet;
Freeze, lack of heat.

A mob;
Get a job;
Meet your heart-throb;
Become a snob.

Feel gay;
Get so gray;
Comes judgment day;
In coffin you lay.

WALTER ROTHSCHILD

THE FOUR

FRESHMAN

Do you remember the times long ago,
The days as a freshman that we loved so?
Won't you recall all the fun that you had,
The times you were good, and those you were bad?
Recall how you acted through freshman days
When you showed off in so many ways;
And those naughty dares and frivolous cares
That brought on their way so many gray hairs.
Remember those spit balls thrown round the room
That made our poor teacher reach for the broom;
Then when you talked to the cute Sagamore
Who very politely showed you the door.
Remember the boring history class,
How you prayed that the time would swiftly pass.
Were you not thrilled the days you cut classes
So you could flirt with all pretty lasses?
Remember in homeroom you would laugh and would talk,
And when the bell rang, you would run and not walk.
Then after class when you'd have to stay,
You'd think of yourself outside and at play.
But soon with much joy and delight you learned
Your place in the ranks of soph'more you'd earned.

SOPHOMORE

'Cause you'd reached the rank looked up to by all,
You noisily darted through every hall;
And in your art class you painted a heart;
When teacher walked by you jumped with a start.
Remember those papers torn into bits
That sent our poor janitors right into fits.
How you hated that phrase, "A test today."
When teacher, frowning, said "All books away."
Your face became red; your feet felt like lead;
You wished you were safely back home in bed.
When you got an "A" in that algebra test,
You proudly considered yourself of the best.
Recall when you whispered in study hall;
When teacher heard, you stood by the wall.
Remember your Caesar in Latin class;
You bought a "pony" so you could pass.
Remember the time you tried to act old,
On long trousers to wear you were finally sold.
Then how you blushed when the girls smiled at you;
Right then you said, "I'm a man through and through."
But now that you've finally reached the peak,
It is the junior class you fervently seek.

YEAR PLAN

JUNIOR

Then there's the charming Junior,
The cream of every crop;
She's sweet and cute and charming,
And in every way on top;
She's lost the railing manner
Of former Sophomore days,
And has modestly acquired
More sweet and winning ways.
Not yet the illustrious Senior,
She shyly waits her turn
To sip the cup of glory,
And with critical eye discern
The pinnacle of triumph
For which she fondly yearns.
The most ideal position
With two years through the grind
Has developed, so says Wordsworth,
The "philosophic mind";
But neither rude nor haughty,
Possessing every scruple,
Embodying all that's right and good
Of every Weequahic pupil.

SENIOR

The aristocratic Senior,
She's come four years for this,
The proud and haughty maiden
Is quite the superior miss.
So learned and intelligent
She must command respect,
As reverent under-classmen
To her will are quite subject.
The blue blood of the noble
Runs swiftly through her veins,
As readily seen through pale white skin
If one will take the pains.
To her Einstein's fourth dimension
Is quite the usual thing,
Dashing off its explanation,
An authoritative ring;
And the faintest hint, illusion,
To her mind the classics bring.
So now we've seen them all;
Sure no doubt there can one find
Of who's by far "superior"
To every Weequahic mind.

MEMORIES

Of my four years I can't complain,
Though much in them drove me insane.

"Up" stairways for me to go "Down"
And on each landing teacher's frown.

And study slips: row, seat and side;
I'd wrack my brain till I most cried.

Excuse for absence or detention,
A science lab I didn't mention.

Locker numbers, and combinations
Have made all things abominations.

To me school's one big "Memorize"
Of things my teachers summarize.

They never taught me to forget;
I do that best, to my regret.

But it all leads to a surprise;
These memories I'll memorize.

TRIBAL MEMORIES

Oh, to be back with this tribe,
Back in fair Weequahic's halls,
Again that learning to imbibe
While gazing at the pictured walls;
To stroll once more with fairest squaws
And dance the war dance of a rally,
To trail the prints of South Side paws
And by the wigwam door to dally.
Oh, for one more glimpse of braves
Showing prowess on the mats;
This tribal banner as it waves,
The maidens' paint and feathered hats.
It would give me wealth, my dears,
To hear again that off-key band;
Oh, to pass again the years
To see Weequahic's totems stand.

RUTH ROTHMAN

Senior Activities

BOYS' SPORTS

• Weequahic will bid a fond "adieu" this June to a group of the finest athletes ever to pass beneath the portals of the Indian Hall of Learning. In our review of the senior class let us pause for a few moments to present:

In Football

STANLEY SEIGEL . . . For a long time after he graduates, Stan will be remembered at Weequahic. His great punting, able line-plunging, and inspirational team play have all contributed toward making him one of the outstanding full-backs in Weequahic football history.

In Basketball

NORMAN SLATER . . . Not only was he the captain, center, and second highest scorer on this year's varsity, but Norm was also a key man on the 1940-41 squad. This tower of strength was a bulwark of defense and kept many an enemy's shot from going true to its mark.

HARRY CHERNETSKY . . . His fighting spirit and undying will to win made "Cheese" Chernetzky one of the gamest of Indian warriors. Weequahic's team would have been incomplete without the extra color and spirit that he supplied.

SAM GETZ . . . The "human dynamo" of the court, by his great defensive and offensive play, guided our braves through an undefeated season this year. Sam was picked by many writers for one of the All-State Teams and cannot be praised too highly.

DONALD GURITSKY . . . The "unsung hero of the courts" would be a perfect way to describe

In Tennis

MORTON SANTLIFER . . . Weequahic will lose a fine netman with Morty's graduation. For two years he has played consistently on the varsity squad and has managed to win a majority of his matches.

this member of Weequahic's best known team. "Blitz" Guritsky, however, was one of the most consistent defensive players and one of the finest sportsmen on the 1940-41 squad.

HERBERT LEVINE . . . Herb showed real basketball ability in the 1941 tournament when he averaged over ten points per game, and became the outstanding tournament player for the Indians. His unconquerable spirit acted as a tonic to the team throughout the season.

RICHARD REINHARD . . . Dick's great defensive play and excellent all-around floor game are worthy of high praise. His career came to a brilliant climax during the 1941 State Tournament when he sparkled as one of the best defensive men of our team.

WALTER WEBER . . . A player on the varsity for two years, Walt was the Indians' highest scorer in 1941. In addition to this he was also a fine team player, handled the ball skillfully, and his presence on the floor was always a threat to the opposition.

In Track

ROBERT BEGEROW . . . Undying loyalty and unflinching courage marked Bob's two year stay on the varsity track and cross country squads. He won a number of first places in various track meets this year.

JOHN BROPHY . . . "Long John" has been the outstanding member of Weequahic's track and cross country teams for the past two years. Captain of both of these teams, Brophy's name will go down in the school's history as one of the finest track stars ever to run for the Weequahic braves.

JORDAN WASSERMAN . . . With a spring in his feet and a stout heart in his body, Jordy jumped his way to success on the Indian track squad. High jumping and broad jumping, which were the Wasserman specialties, he executed with finesse.

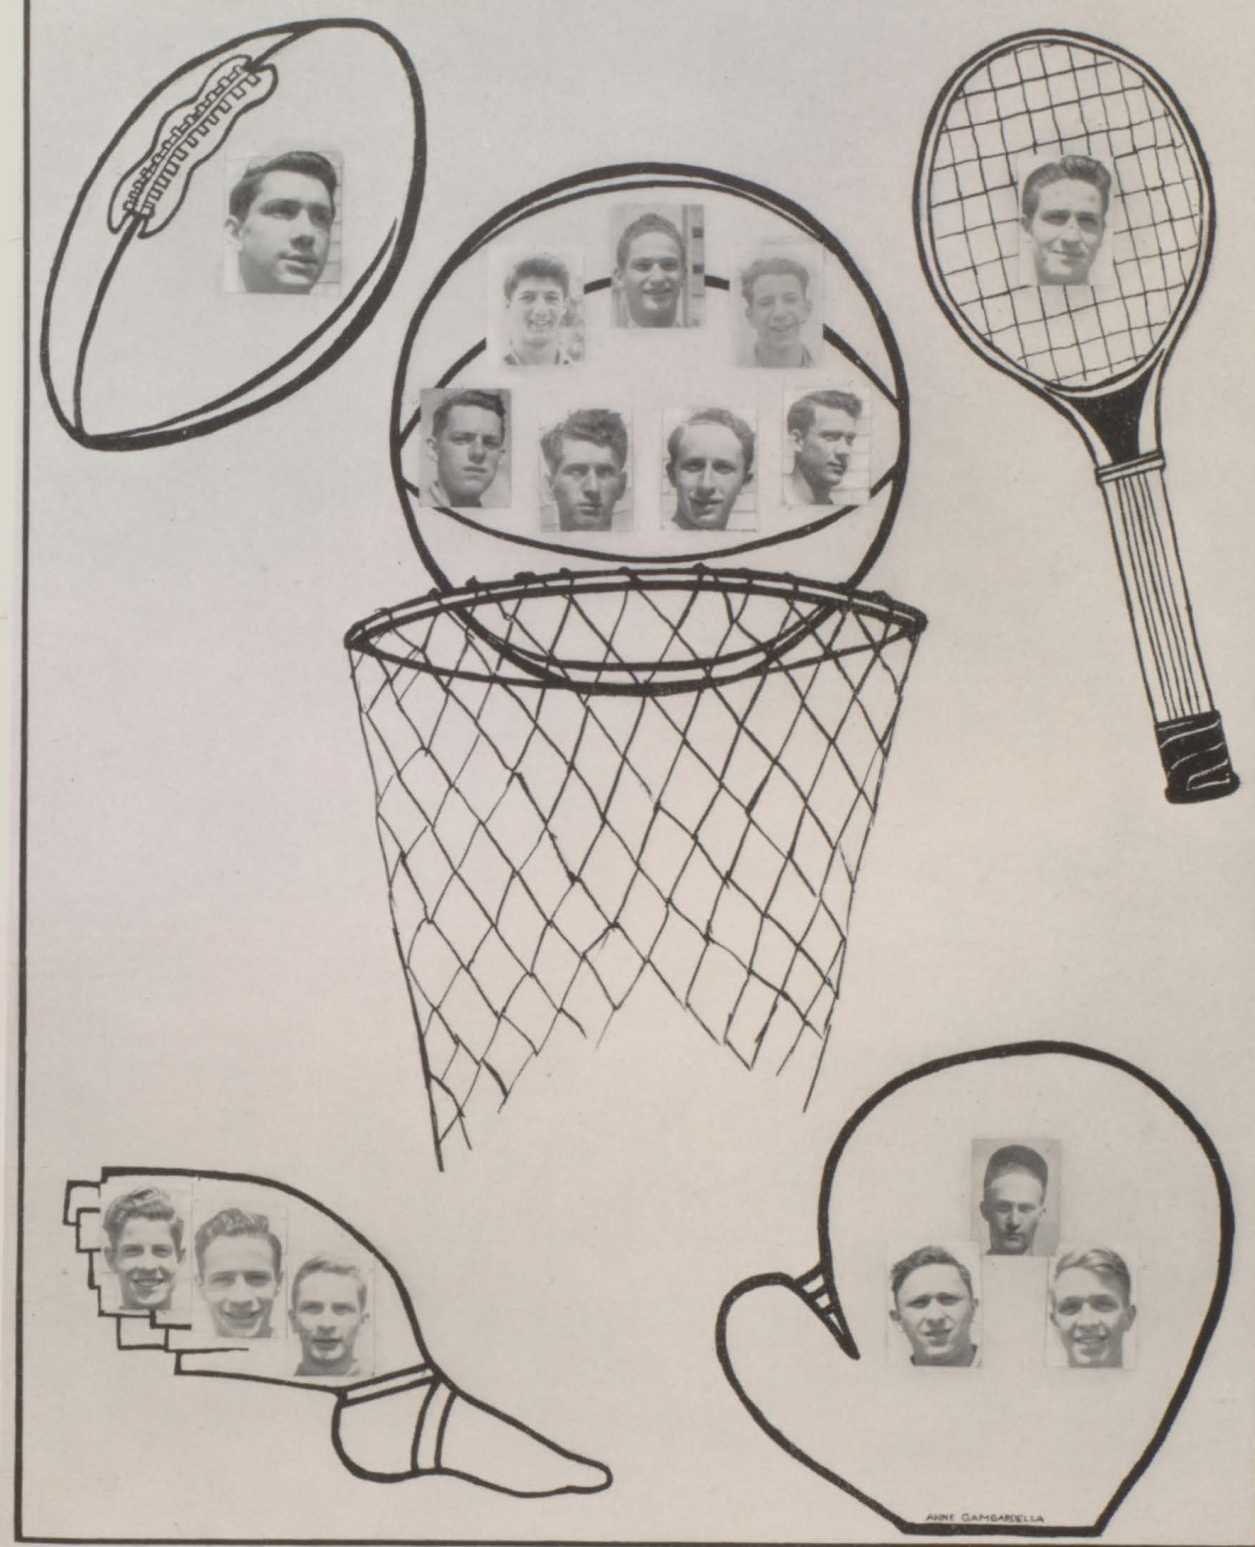

In Baseball

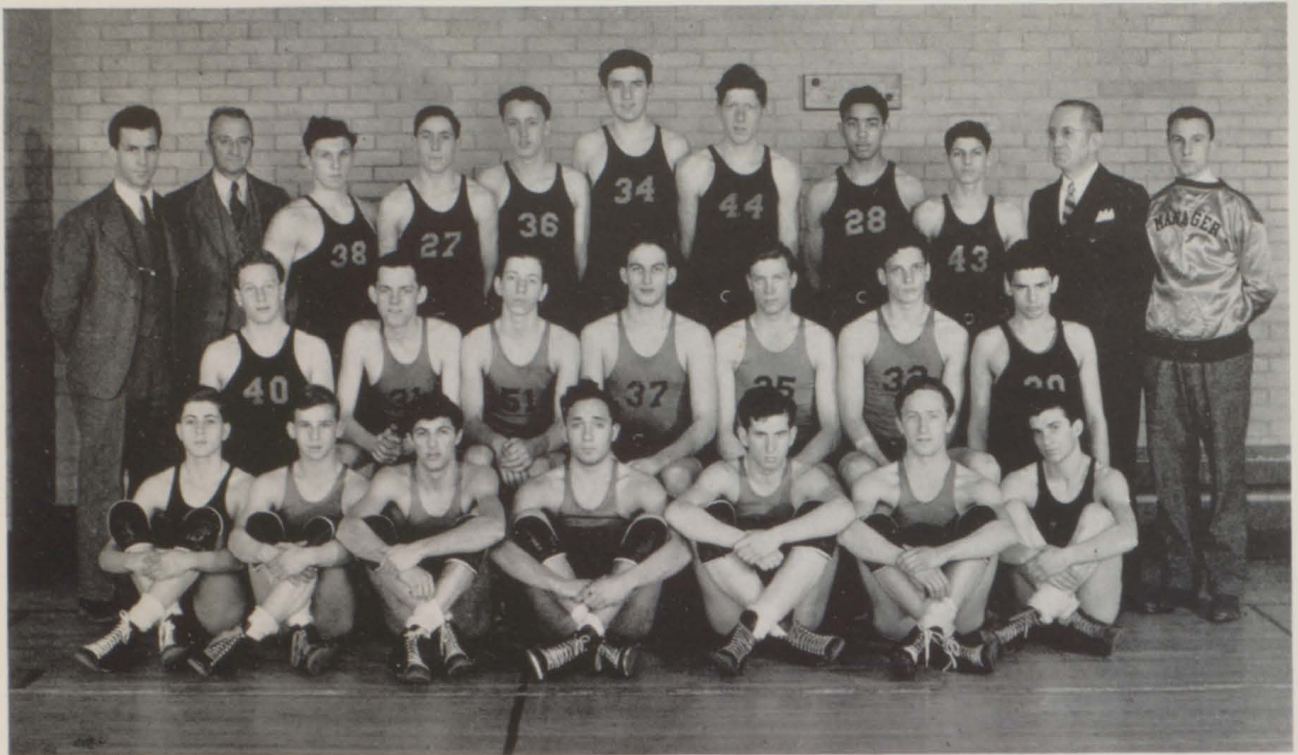

ROBERT COHEN . . . Bob, the strong, silent man behind the plate, has been guiding and steadying Weequahic pitchers for two years. In addition to his able receiving, Bob has also done yeoman service for the Indians at bat.

WALTER KRETCHMER . . . "Fleetfoot" Kretchmer is leaving a brilliant record behind him. Being both the Number 1 pitcher and the center fielder was no easy job. Wally handled his task admirably and set a fine example for future Indians.

LEON RYNAR . . . Every team needs a scrappy, hard-hitting second baseman, and Leon certainly filled that bill for Weequahic. During his two seasons on the varsity he also tried his hand at catching and outfielding with a great amount of success.

SCRIPTA MATHEMANIA

• Weequahic High School has participated for the eighth time in the annual mathematics contest sponsored by New York University; and, for the second year in succession, has won the Pi Mu Epsilon Cup for top-score of the high schools of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. With preliminary training of a large number of seniors, the first squad of candidates selected were: Richard Burstein, Robert Greene, Edwin Leister, Alice Levy, Ernest Morgenstern, Sanford Neuhaus, Harold Yuker, Horace Davidon, Milton Gussow, Bert Lasko and Elizabeth Tepper. After many months of daily intensive drill after school hours by Mr. Morris H. Meyerson, coach, the actual team chosen by elimination tests was composed of Richard Burstein, Horace Davidon, Robert Greene and Bert Lasko. The contest was held April 26, and as we go to press, the results for this year are not yet known.

From a survey of our recent graduates in college, it was learned that more boys are enrolled in engineering (over 40 percent) than in any other field. Mr. Isaac K. Ellis, Chairman of the Department, has been trying to add several courses in mathematics which will prepare for immediate war-defense positions. Two members of the department who are engineers are now engaged in war-defense instruction, one in Machine Design and the other in preparing Flying

Cadets for their commissions, in keeping with the demands of the day.

GIRLS' SPORTS

• The after-school sports activities available for girls are: Basketball, volley ball, badminton, archery, swimming, bowling, golf and horse-back riding.

The girls of the class of June 1941 have distinguished themselves by winning intramural badminton and basketball tournaments for the past two years.

A "W" is awarded to those girls who have accumulated a total of 1000 points through class work and extra-curricular activities. A pin, the highest recognition for girls, is awarded for having earned 1500 points.

HONOR SOCIETY

• The John H. Logan Chapter of the National Honor Society is largely dominated by our illustrious classmates. We see the intelligentsia acting as color guard during assemblies or tutoring students in the auditorium. The members meet twice a month with Miss Reid as adviser, and have lately joined the Interscholastic Honor Societies of Newark. Marvin Moser is president; Ernest Morgenstern, vice-president, and Paula Silverman, secretary.

THE CALUMET

The Calumet literary staff turned out a good student newspaper every two weeks. In doing this it worked harder and longer than any other group in the school.

Pearl Chasalow, the editor-in-chief, was a good worker, and the Calumet was her biggest interest and greatest pride.

Alice Lubin, the direct and able news editor, enjoyed her work and associates to the utmost.

Harriet Axler, in charge of the editorial page, was clever and her editorials were always pertinent.

Janice Lehrer was in charge of correspondence and Alice Levy of clubs. Myron Mandelstein was a versatile reporter.

O. B. A. COUNCIL

• It is a great tribute to the 4A class that all seven members of the Weequahic High O. B. A. Council are seniors. These leaders of the school coordinate all extra-curricular activities, dances, entertainments, the school court, and the patrol.

They meet once a week with Mr. Ackerman as adviser. The members are:

Cyrus Bloom	Martin Fox
Barbara Brodsky	Robert Greene
Julius Cohen	Alan Henig
Rita Schnack

SENIOR PROM

Walking along the deck of the S.S. Weequahic, we strolled into the main ballroom, where we were graciously received by our distinguished faculty.

The lights were low; the atmosphere, romantic; we were in the midst of the picturesque tropics. The señoritas coyly glanced down from their balconies upon their serenading caballeros below. Palm trees swayed in the soft breeze. Huge sombreros provided a background for the orchestra.

We danced to the throbbing, pulsating rhythm of the tropics. In the heat of the evening we were refreshed by punch and cookies.

One of the highlights of the night was the drawing for the commander and commander's lady. Leon Rynar was designated commander and Alice Lubin, commander's lady.

The delightful evening ended all too soon. We owe the enjoyable moments of our cruise to the efforts of Miss Lee Steinholtz, Mrs. Esther Schecter, and the committee, which was headed by Joseph Kahn.

IMPULSE

I sat with plumed pen in hand,
Mind o'er rushed with bursting thought;
I sat with hand poised o'er the page,
But flowing pen no word had wrought.

I felt the pull of power surge;
Within my soul a mood that cried
For expression's satisfaction —
But my pen, my soul denied.

I left the virgin page untouched;
I laid the crimson plume aside,
And feigned that nought had passed, but still
My bursting soul could not abide.

It tortured till I dipped the pen
And set it to the snowy page;
And then I knew a flow of freedom,
A calm content, my soul's assuage.

RUTH ROTHMAN

TRANSITION

Scholars rest! Thy work is o'er;
Sleep without alarm clocks waking;
Dream of battered books no more;
Dream no more of pre-test quaking.

Dream not of school's noisy halls,
And various sounds that reached the ear;
When Sagamores plotted various falls,
And timid freshmen fled in fear.

No more toil or nights of cramming
For that chem or history test;
We all knew that with that ramming
It was all done for the best.

Scholars awake! Thy life is starting;
We have studied four long years;
The time has come and we are parting,
But look ahead and banish tears.

SHEILA WAGNER

QUERY

Child, I cannot answer
Your simple inquiry.
Oh, do not stand there staring,
With wide, blue eyes at me.
I know you thought your mother
Knew all things small and great;
But I simply cannot answer
Your query, "Why is hate?"

RUTH ROTHMAN

LITTLE SCHOLAR

Blessings on thee little scholar,
With thy pointed rolled collar;
With thy turned up trousers pegged,
With thy red lip, redder still,
Kissed by maidens from the hill;
With thy look so worldly wise,
And thy flashy colored ties;
From my cup I toast thy pep;
Sharpster, son, you sure are hep!

SHIRLEY GOTTLIEB

FRUSTRATION

Class has ended; the bell finally rings;
Fly to the lunchroom as though we had wings;
Dash to a table, but much to despair,
The table's reserved for the oncoming pair.
Rush to the counter and grab a tray;
Glance at the menu for the day:
Hot dogs, potatoes, carrots, and peas;
Ooodles of food but none to please.
Had hot dogs yesterday and the day before;
May as well have them one day more.
Pushed along by a hungry pack,
All of them anxious for midday snack;
Set to give my order—but held at bay;
I'm at the cashier's with an empty tray.

SHIRLEY GOTTLIEB

THE FRESHIE

Down the corridor the freshman tore,
Gazing at numbers upon each door.
The bell had rung, the period began,
And quick as lightening this small boy ran;
But a teacher stopped him suddenly
To inquire what fire he hoped to see.
"I'm sorry," said Frosh, "that I had hurried;
Please don't report me for now I'm all worried."
"What room were you seeking?" Miss Faculty said;
"Was it homeroom, or gym class, or history instead?"
"I lost my schedule before," said he;
"I don't know where I'm assigned to be."

PEARL GOLDBLATT

OF STUDIES

Pupils regard their classes merely as a bore,
But most of us will yearn for student days once more.
We'll always be reminded of where friendships
first were made,
Where pupils learned to give and take and future plans were laid;
Where understanding teachers tried to do their best
In order that their pupils might pass the cycle test;
Where homework and class work were very greatly stressed;
"But why," I ask, "must all we learn come out of high school texts?"

PEARL GOLDBLATT

RHYMES WITH NO REASON

I, through much of a mist and a whirl,
Saw a beautiful 4A girl
Who, believe it or not,
On the usual spot,
Wore no flower, no ribbons, no curl.

I once knew a girl, Tessie Traddles,
Who never would clean her white saddles;
Till once Tess in a trance,
Saw her empty shoes dance;
Now she always has clean boots and saddles.

Gather 'round me and hear my sad story
Of a "frosh" who was walking in glory—
With his girl friend so fair—
Going up a down stair—
The result was a glory most gory.

Fire drills never fail to amuse me;
I claim ignorance just to excuse me;
We start out at a trot;
Then we're all in a knot,
For those signals and bells just confuse me.

DAVIDINE COLEMAN

A LUNCHROOM DISSERTATION

Fifth period arrives; we hear the bell ring;
And the peace of the lunchroom becomes a by-gone thing.

The students enter with a rush and a roar;
The noise that they make rocks the ceiling and floor.

Tables are reserved in a twinkling of an eye;
Chairs are taken in a manner not sly.

If someone turns his back to his other tablemates;
He finds his lunch vanished and he rages at the Fates.

But shortly before the period ends,
His lunch is "discovered" by some of his "friends."

The bell suddenly rings; another rush and a roar.
And the lunchroom's as empty as it was before.

HERMAN POLLACK

THE STORM

The wind whips the trees into fury:
The sky is a leaden grey
As thunder announces in bellows
The storm is on its way.

And humid, the air hangs pregnant
With threats of coming disaster
Until, as on a signal,
The rain comes, ever faster.

Sheets of it sweeping the valleys,
Drenching the parched land,
Pouring and dripping and quenching
Earth's thirst with a generous hand.

Content are the flowers and fields;
Filled is the dry river bed;
The thunder dies; the rain is ceased;
The show is done; God's earth is fed.

RAIN

Drab and dreary, dismal grey,
Rain drips down to drench the day.
Grey the sky and grey the street;
Monotonous the endless beat:
The drip and drip and drip again
As, swathed in wet and drabbest grey,
There weeps forlorn and lonely Day,
For her lover, Sun, again
To bring surcease to endless rain.

RUTH ROTHMAN

ACTIVITY

Sing thee not of dark despair,
But raise thy voice and cleave the air
With songs of faith in truth and right,
Songs of will to work and fight
For those truths which you believe,
For those rights for which you live.
Cry not that you've worked surfeit
And don't deserve surcease of fight;
You worked; you sought; you strove; you won;
But dare not ask ye peace e'en yet;
Your greatest fight has just begun.

MANNEQUIN

She dwelt in caverns of the night,
Decked with moons and nebulae,
Lit with love and lunar light,
Hung with azure of the sky.

Held safe by beauty and by love,
Untouched by pettiness of life,
Empty beauty, barren love,
Void perfection, virgin wife.

And so she lived in love and peace,
Asking only variation,
Praying only for surcease
From the endless, blank perfection.

Tho she had all one might desire,
All of that was not enough;
Beauty is a lovely lyre,
And diamonds are but lifeless stuff.

The poet erred in his deeming,
"Beauty is excuse for being."
Seek ye not a peaceful life;
But welcome work and seek out strife.

RUTH ROTHMAN

PROM NITE

'Twas the Friday of "Prom Nite,"
And all through my house,
You could hear curlers squeaking
(Just like a mouse).
My stockings were hung on the wash bowl with care,
In hopes that I wouldn't find any runs there.

And then as I lay down to rest on my bed,
Visions of dancing ran through my head;
And Ma with each gesture, each movement, each glance,
Warned me to rest for a long night to dance.
When out on the street there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash;
Opened the blinds and threw up the sash.
When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a car, a jalopy of some ancient year,
With a cutie as driver, so lively, so quick;
I knew 'twas my escort, so handsome and chic.
More rapid than spitfires his voice then it came;
He shouted; he whistled; he called me by name.
To the top of my porch, to the door in a flash;
Then my front door bell rang with a resounding clash.
As dry leaves that before a wild hurricane fly,
I went down to meet him with a gleam in my eye.

As I went to the hall and was turning around,
In through the door he rushed with a bound;
He was dressed to a T, and was right in the groove;
The tags from his new clothes he didn't remove;
A corsage of flowers he flung in my face,
And asked me if I could keep a fast pace.
And just as I for my coat did reach,
I noticed his chin was as smooth as a peach.
With a butt of a cigarette held tight in his teeth;
I smelled the fair tonic on his head like a wreath.
We got into the car and prepared to depart
When the motor went dead and refused to start.
A wink of his eyes and a twist of his head,
He leaped from the car 'for anything was said;
He spoke not a word, but went straight to work;
He cranked up the motor; it began with a jerk;
But I heard him exclaim ere we drove up to school,
"Happy Prom Nite to all; have fun is the rule."

DAVIDINE COLEMAN

GREEN

Once a green young Senior in her green little way,
Drank a lime coca cola three times a day;
Now the green little grasses tenderly wave
O'er the green young Senior in her green little grave.

RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT

'Twas just six years ago I stood,
A little freshman, shy and good,
Who gazed upon these portals wide
And wondered what went on inside.

I soon found out to my despair
The frigid eye, the icy stare,
Bestowed upon me when I tried
Through classroom work to safely slide.

Alas, and then alack for me,
It never worked as I can see;
I flunked each quiz and every test;
With F's each cycle I was blest.

And then I reached my soph'more year,
And could at leisure laugh and leer
At little freshies, shy and good,
Who at these mighty portals stood.

For two long years and then a half
I could as soph'more leer and laugh;
But soon I wearied of the sport,
So entered into Junior Port.

Now I had grown and was a man
Who needn't study, when lovely Ann
And pretty Mary 'cross the aisle
Made goo-goo eyes and loved my smile.

And thus an extra year I stayed,
(For many goo-goo eyes were made)
For in my third and Junior year,
Were many lovelies, sweet and dear.

Now after six, or was it more,
Long years, in learning of the lore
Of girls and dates, I've reached my goal;
I'm next on the . . . Works Progress Roll!

GRACE COHEN

RAVIN'

Once upon a midday dreary, I was sitting, oh, so weary,
In one of Weequahic's classrooms and looking at the door.
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of someone gently rapping, rapping at the classroom door.
"Must be Caroline," I murmured, "Helen, Janet or Lenore;
One of them—or maybe more."

Oh, distinctly, I remember, it was in the bleak December
As I shook from head to foot and ran to ope' the door.
My young heart was beating madly and my body swaying gladly.
As I jumped, then ran and opened up the door.
In chagrin I fast retreated, and of thoughts I had no more;
It was only homeroom teacher—was I sore!

JOE STEINBERG

MEASLES

Just as you have had a record
Of attendance all the year;
Just as you are making headway.
With the girl who used to sneer;
Just as you have got a job,
And are working like a Diesel;
Suddenly, with no forewarning.
Then it's pop goes the Measle!

IF I HAD WINGS

If I had wings I'd straightway fly
To that high place up in the sky
Where I could see with vision clear,
And only wisdom reach my ear.

Where I could hold tight in my hand
The truth, so freedom could be fanned,
And burst with bright and radiant light
Upon a quarreling, greedy night.

"I say that there shall be no war;
So be it," I would shout and roar;
And all would still, and peace regain;
And sun would take the place of rain.

Of these things I just can't conceive;
Chaos is near—should I believe?
For I've no wings to soar and fly
To that high place up in the sky.

I'm frightened, scared, of what's to come.
Will I soon hear a war plane's hum?
For fear has clutched my heart and brain;
There is no sun; there's only rain.

DAVIDINE COLEMAN

THE HEIGHT OF THE METICULOUS

I wrote some lines for our yearbook
In a cheerful but daring mood,
And thought for once that he might say
That they were very good.

To our adviser then I went;
How nice and condescending
To heed a slender brain like mine;
My masterpiece was pending.

"We cannot use these lines," he said,
"Until they are corrected."
It seems his standards were too high,
And so my fate: Rejected!

From morn till eve again I toiled,
Adding, correcting, revising;
Again to Mr. La Penna I came,
By now all verse despising.

"These to the printer's," he exclaimed;
Then in his own sarcastic way,
He added as a trifling jest,
"If the price for the page you'll pay!"

EDITH LASKA

OUR LAND

Big, Brown and Firm,
Bright with the hardness of years,
Swelled by passion's germ,
Smoothed by the running of tears.

Bold to the face of aggressors,
Kind to those they aggress,
Brutal to the oppressors,
Tender to the oppressed.

Knicked by the razors of war,
Scarred by the blades of strife,
Voice heard of liberty's roar,
Loved by freedom, his wife.

DAVIDINE COLEMAN

THE COMEDY OF ERRORS

I went downtown one merry day;
I should have gone to school;
And as I think about it now,
I know I was a fool.

The lunch and movies were all right;
In fact, the whole day nice;
But as I think about it now,
I paid too high a price.

My teacher and my mother, both
Asked what was my intention;
I said I really didn't know;
I now attend detention.

ABE NEDICK

TEACHERS

Fear not each teacher's voice with shock;
Her haughty manner do not mock.
She's really kind, I hope you know;
That haughty manner is only show.

Where Youth Responds

Modesty is one of the most attractive of all qualities to be found in youth.

When Robert Browning wrote: "Measure your mind by the shadow it casts," he was in effect expressing his opinion that the right to speak or act with authority is earned by achievement.

Young men and women of today, by their ready acceptance of this abiding truth, gain the respect and approval of their elders.

through PRODUCTION

In advertising and printing when minds co-ordinate, creating work of merit, there is great responsibility in faithful reproduction of the message as it was designed and intended. We acknowledge and try to meet the challenge of that responsibility, backed by a record of dependable production and years of experience in services rendered.
